HUNGRY HOOSIERS.

The Indianians at Washington After Good Jobs.

Fort Wayne Postoffice Candidates Will Stay by McNagny Until He Makes a Choice.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—There are enough Indianians here applying for jobs to fill one half of the offices. Those who are after the big places have selected the treasury department perhaps because Senator Voorhees is supposed to have a big pull with Secretary Carlisle. Col. Matson, of Greencastle, is making a still hunt for second comptroller. Eb Henderson says he will remain here until he is given back his old job, deputy commissioner of internal revenue. Both Henderson and Matson are from Cooper's district. Judge Jordan, of Indianapolis, has filed his application for the first auditor of the treasury. He says his interests will be taken care of by Turpie and Voorhees and will return home tomorrow and wait there for his commission. Foley, of Indianapolis, president of the Gray club, will stay another week to push his application for third auditor. John G. Williams, third auditor under the first Cleveland administration, wants to be commissioner of internal revenue.

PLUMS NOT AT HAND.

The Indiana appointments will not be made immediately with the exception of United States district attorney and United States marshal. These two appointments will be made within two weeks. Frank Burke, of Jeffersonville, is the only candidate on the ground for district attorney, but his friends do not expect to see him appointed. They realize that his opposition to the Australian ballot law and labor bills while a member of the senate render him an unavailable candidate. Mr. Cleveland wants a district attorney who will do his utmost to enforce the criminal features of the election law, and a man who is not in sympathy with ballot reform would not exert himself in prosecuting violations of the law. The president has given out that he will not appoint men to office whose records on labor questions are assailed by organized labor. Mr. Burke was instrumental in defeating the coemploye liability bill two years ago.

George Geiger, of Indianapolis, ex-Sheriff Hawkins, of Sullivan, and Tom Buskirk, of Orange county, are here pushing their claims for United States marshal. Samuel Hargrave, of Gibson, will be here tomorrow. It is understood that a candidate from the southern part of the state will be appointed. Mr. Hawkins is endorsed by Senator Voorhees, and Senator Turpie has not yet decided upon his choice.

THE REVENUE COLLECTORSHIP.

The fight for collector of the Terre Haute district is creating some bad blood. Voorhees is for Jump, John Lamb's law partner, and Brookshire is pushing Hulet, of Crawfordsville, for the same place. Col. Haskins, of Clay, member of the state commission, entered the field upon the understanding that he would receive the support of Voorhees and John Lamb.

THE PENSION AGENCY.

Pension Agent Ensley's commission does not expire till January next and he will be allowed to serve his term out. Col. Zollinger, of Fort Wayne, Capt. D. F. Allen, of Frankfort, and Daniel Mustard, of Anderson, are the candidates. It is understood that Zollinger has the support of Voorhees. Zollinger was the agent under the first administration, and if Cleveland adheres to this rule, his appointment is doubtful; otherwise he has the best chances. For the same reason Henderson and Williams would be barred out.

For bank examiner Mayor Packard, of Plymouth, has secured the majority of the delegation, including Turpie. Congressman Conn has been very diligent in his behalf and has induced Dan McDonald, of the Plymouth Democrat, to withdraw in his favor. McDonald has held a six-dollar-a-day job in the house for six years and will no doubt continue in the next house. It is believed that Packard will be appointed.

OTHER CANDIDATES.

Maurice Donnelly is after the office of surveyor of customs of Indianapolis; it pays $6,000 a year. William A. Posey, of Rush, wants to be land inspector. Dan Woods of Kokomo, wants Bears' place, postoffice inspector. Dennis Colbert, of Indianapolis, brother of the chief of police, thinks he ought to be made superintendent of mails for the Cincinnati district. Jerome Herff, of Peru, wants to go to Cuba as consul general, and Luther Short, of Franklin, consul at Constantinople. W. E. English wants to go to Switzerland as consul general. Indiana, under Harrison's administration, had four consulships and there are fifty applicants for consulates under the present administration.

FORT WAYNE POSTOFFICE.

Congressman McNagny has his hands full with postoffice candidates. He is entertained by all the candidates for the Fort Wayne office. John Monning, Mart Spencer, William Meyer, Doc Metcalf and A. J. Moynihan, who represents Candidate Rockhill. They propose to stay until it is settled.

SHANKLIN'S PLACE.

Editor Sparks, of the Mount Vernon Democrat, is making a very hard fight for the postoffice and has the support of Shanklin. He is opposed by the Menzies faction. Shanklin is suggested for first or fourth assistant postmaster general. The fourth assistant postmaster general wields the axe which made Stevenson so popular.

HAWAIIAN AFFAIRS.

No Outbreak Has Occurred Since the Revolution.

The People Patiently Waiting for the Day That Shall Make Them American Citizens.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—The bark Carrier Dove arrived here from Honolulu at 10 o'clock last night and brings advices from the United Press correspondent there up to February 16. The following letter conveys the latest intelligence from the islands:

HONOLULU, February 16.—As the work of the provisional government progresses, the difference between the old and the new regimes, become apparent and gives more satisfaction to the American residents here. No outbreak of any kind has occurred, though it lacks but little of being one month since the old order of things was overturned.

The inspection of the barracks was made today by the United Press reporter and everything was found in good order and prepared for any emergency. The forces of the provisional government number at present 350 men under regular pay, in addition to which three companies of volunteers of about the same number of strength are being formed, two companies now having about their requisite quota. The men are armed with Springfield rifles, Bullington sight, and Winchester carbines, which were inherited from the monarchy. In addition to this there are seven or eight dismounted siege guns, four field pieces ready for action and one Gatling gun forming the battery, as one of the officers stated, that would prove an insurmountable barrier against attack.

The American vessels in the harbor are the Mohican, which is used by Admiral Skerritt as a temporary flag ship; the Boston, which still remains under command of Captain Wiltse, and the Alliance, which arrived today.

Admiral Skerritt, in an interview had with him, stated that it was something of a surprise to find the stars and stripes waving over the government building on the arrival of the Mohican here. "I called on United States Minister Stevens," he said, "who informed me of the circumstances and I can say I was glad to see the flag up."

With a few exceptions the white population of the island take the American side. Admiral Skerritt said he had no information as to what would be done at Washington, but he was inclined to think that President Harrison would take what action he considered best in the matter. He had no information concerning the Adams and the Ranger, that their commanders had been notified some time ago to hold their vessels in readiness for immediate service. The admiral declined to state what orders he had received from Washington, but it is understood that they are very full, and explicit. He had heard a rumor that the German squadron, comprising the Alexandria, Sophie and Leipsic, now at Callao, Acapulco, might proceed to Honolulu, but saw no reason for their doing so.

He knew of no prospect for trouble with any power growing out of the situation here and especially none with Germany, whose interests are amply protected by local German representatives and American officials.

Captain Jordan, commanding the barracks under the present military organization, said today that while there was some question as to whether a general uprising of native Hawaiians could be incited, it was not because they lacked in bravery, but rather that the proper leadership was wanting. "I don't mind telling you," he said, "that on Sunday last I learned that there was a project on foot for Queen Liliuokalani, as she still is called, to go to the palace. You may not understand that this would mean much to the native mind. It would mean, in fact, an assumption of royal authority. On Monday morning I issued the order that if Mrs. Dominis, the deposed queen, attempted to enter the palace gates without a pass properly signed, to refuse her admission, and if forcible entry was attempted to resist it and that the guard will be there in double-quick time. On Monday the rumors were repeated and I reported what I had done to Colonel Sopher and President Dole, who approved it, and I have since issued the same order every morning. No attempt has yet been made by Mrs. Dominis to enter the palace, and she remains quietly at her residence."

WASHINGTON, March 7.—While it is not certain what President Cleveland will do in the matter of appointing a commission to visit Hawaii before acting on the annexation question one decision has been reached and that is that the commissioners and the representatives of the dethroned queen and of the heirs apparent shall be heard before action of any kind is taken. Secretary Gresham said yesterday that the matter would be given the serious consideration its importance demanded, but declined to even intimate what the course of procedure would likely be.

One of the first questions to be considered by the cabinet is as to the course to be pursued in regard to the American flag now flying over Hawaii. If the action of the past administration is not to be upheld, then the flag will have to come down and instructions to that effect sent to Mr. Stevens. This is one of the points which, it is understood, would be decided at the first cabinet meeting.

RETURNS TO HIS HOME.

Ex-President Harrison Given a Cordial Greeting

By the Citizens of Indianapolis Upon His Return From Washington—His Speech.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 7.—Indianapolis did honor to her most distinguished citizen last night. Fully 15,000 people gathered at the state house to bid him welcome and greeted him with most enthusiastic demonstrations of appreciation. At 8 o'clock the doors were thrown open. The interior of the state house was beautifully draped with flags, and directly over the stand, which was erected under the south balcony, floated the state banner of Indiana.

The distinguished party, headed by Mayor Sullivan, of this city, shortly appeared, and the great building rocked with the cheers which went up from the thousands of throats. Mayor Sullivan briefly welcomed the ex-president and gave way to Governor Matthews, who more formally welcomed the distinguished citizen. Hon. C. W. Fairbanks, of this city, made the welcoming speech, and Mr. Harrison replied as follows:

GOVERNOR MATTHEWS, MR. FAIRBANKS AND FRIENDS:—I do not think, even if the circumstances, were more favorable than now surround us, I could say more than a few words of thanks. Four years ago, if the calendar is consulted, I left you to assume high responsibilities. If I should consult heart and mind, I should say it has been ten years since I bade good bye to my Indianapolis friends. Not the rising and setting of the sun, but our experiences give a true sense of duration. Suggestions of an attractive sort were made to me to make my home elsewhere, but it seemed to me that the only home for me was Indianapolis. [Cheers.] I am too old to make a new home; not too old, I hope, to renew these old associations that made this so dear a home, and to take within the circle of my affectionate regard this multitude of new faces that I see here tonight. Change, improvement, expansion and increase are everywhere apparent, and in all this I rejoice with you. The state of Indiana has made corresponding increase. Factories and homes have greatly multiplied. Our population has greatly increased. Wealth has been developed and I trust and believe that with this advancement along material lines there has been a corresponding increase in and development of the heart and of the home which alone can make a great people. Within the past few weeks, I had the pleasure of lifting over one of the greatest merchant steamships that floats upon the sea, that flag of beauty, that hangs before me, [cheers] I regarded it as the precursor and pioneer of and a return of the time when the American flag was seen in every sea and the American navy held in estimation by other nations. [cheers] Only one week ago I had the pleasure of seeing the greatest ship ever built in America—a battle ship, which, when completed, will be able to cope with the greatest ship that England has upon the sea—float from her ways into the Delaware, with the name "Indiana" on the side. [cheers] I left you with but one certainty, and I return with that certainty, that I had no other motive in my heart than the honor of the flag, the sacredness of the constitution and the prosperity of all our people. [Cheers.] I come to you again accompanied by a great sorrow, but I trust, and your presence here gives me your witness, unattended by any shame growing out of the discharge of my public duties. Add to your great kindness and to this great welcome which you have extended to me today, the further kindness of excusing me from attempting to speak further. May God bless you all. [Cheers.]

After speaking the party repaired to a stand under the rotunda, where the ex-president shook hands with the people who filed by. Thousands turned away unsatisfied, but had the satisfaction of attending the greatest public reception to any individual Indianapolis has given in years. The reception lasted about two hours, when the party entered carriages and were driven home.

The legislature paid their respects to General Harrison in a body.

In the afternoon General Harrison and Mrs. McKee went to Crown Hill cemetery to visit Mrs. Harrison's grave.

AN AGED HERMIT

Found Murdered in His Own Home. Where He Had His Money.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 7.—John Lovell, an aged hermit and miser, living three miles south of Lebanon, who was known to have considerable money secreted in the house, was found murdered in bed yesterday morning. Everything in the house was torn to pieces, the walls being broken and floors torn up in the search for money. It is not known what amount of money was obtained.

FIRE IN BRUSH HEAP

Sets Fire to Their Clothing and Two Women are Burned to Death.

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., March 7.—Yesterday afternoon several men working in a field near Mount Juliet were attracted by screams from two women working in an adjoining field. They found Mrs. John W. Jones and her fifteen-year-old daughter burning to death. Their clothing was set on fire from a burning brush heap. Despite all the efforts of the men the women received such injuries that they died within a few minutes.

Workmen Win.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 7.—The marble polishers strike, which has been in progress all winter, has ended and the workmen claim the victory. Two firms have granted the demands asked and work in their shops was commenced this morning. The other firms will capitulate today.

Arkansas Commission.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 7.—Last night Governor Fishback appointed the following gentlemen to compose the Arkansas board of world's fair commissioner: Prof. James Mitchell, of Little Rock, W. S. Thomas, of Saline county; R. B. Weaver, of Boone county; Edward Pace, of Independence, and H. L. Norwood, of Sevier. This board will have comple charge of the Arkansas exhibit and the state's appropriation for that purpose.

WASHINGTON.

Strength of Each Party in the Senate and House.

The Supreme Court Decides a Case Against the United States—Other Capital News.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The present roll call of the senate shows forty-four democrats, thirty-eight republicans, one populist, one independent and one farmers' alliance and three vacancies. The vacancies are one each in Montana, Washington and Wyoming. Should republicans eventually fill all of these vacancies, which can scarcely be the case, in view of Beckwith's appointment in Wyoming, it would give them forty-one. Should the third party senators then all vote with the republicans—a most unlikely supposition—the senate would be a tie, with Vice President Stevenson holding the controlling vote.

The composition of the house, as shown by unofficial returns, is: Democrats, 217; republicans, 128; third party, eight, and vacancies, two. The democrats thus have a majority of eighty over all.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.

The supreme court yesterday decided against the United States in its suit against the California and Oregon Land company, to set aside and declare void the title of the land company to tracts in Oregon purchased by the company from persons acquiring titles from grants under what are known as the Wagon Road land grant acts of congress. The court affirms the decision of the lower court, saying that if it were desired to examine into the primary question it must be by suit against the company receiving the grant.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The department of state has received a dispatch from the American minister at Athens stating that a law has been passed by the Greek chamber of deputies exempting all exhibits at the world's fair from export duty and admitting all goods purchased at the Chicago fair, as samples, free of import duty.

REDEMPTION OF BONDS.

A statement prepared in the division of loans and currency, treasury department, shows that in Mr Cleveland's first administration the department redeemed bonds of the par value of $338,071,850, for which it paid $361,261,612.05. If the bonds had run to maturity, the holders would have received principal and interest, $394,094,150.43, making the saving to the government by the purchase, $32,832,538.38. The par value of bonds redeemed since March 1st, 1889, is $259,093,650, they paid for them $296,316,931.20. Had they run to maturity they would have cost the government $351,669,424.71, making a saving in the transaction of $55,352,493.51. The annual interest charged on March 1, 1889, was $34,578,459.80; on July 1, 1892, since which time there has been no redemption of bonds, it was $22,893,893.20.

GOT THE FIRST DROP.

A Blood-thirsty Mafia Shot Down by One of His Own Countrymen.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 7.—Savannah's only representative of the blood-thirsty society of Mafia was shot down in the market yesterday by one of his enraged and outraged fellow countrymen, who acted in defence of his own life.

Catillo Coumo is the Mafia member's name, and he was shot by Tony Esposito, one of the market men. According to the statement of a number of Italians, Coumo is a member of the Mafia and a desperate character. He has repeatedly assaulted Italians in this city and there are now two warrants against him.

It was Coumo's practice to go up to a fellow countryman and, after cursing him in a manner most foul, to slap him in the face, and then put a pistol under his nose and dare him to resent his insult. He was feared by almost every Italian, and when around had things his own way, as no one had the courage to resist his violent attacks.

When he approached Esposito and began to curse him the latter drew his pistol and shot him. Esposito says it was only a question of who could shoot first, and he was tired of being bullied by the man longer and was determined to resent all further insults offered by him.

WHITE CAPS.

Horrible Brutality Practiced in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 7.—A horrible story of white capping comes from Cherokee county. Wylie and Will Pruitt are two respectable farmers who, some time ago, informed revenue officers of the whereabouts of an illicit still. Saturday night twenty-six men went to their house, dragged them out of bed, stripped them and gave them seventy-eight lashes apiece, each of the white caps giving three strokes. The whipping was done with hickory switches and was horribly brutal. While it was progressing the women and children of their families were required to come out and view the spectacle. The victims recognized the whippers and have sworn out warrants for their arrest.

TRAMP! TRAMP! TRAMP!

The Spoils Have Come; The Seekers Will Run Them Down.

A Few Will Wear Smiles, and Many Have Trials, as They Give up the Chase With a Frown.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The steady tramp, tramp of the office seekers sounded through the white house all day. There was practically no cessation in the line of people who ascended the stairway leading to the president's room and nearly all who came saw Mr Cleveland. They found him in a genial humor, and he cracked jokes with old acquaintances whom he had not seen since his departure from Washington four years ago. While a large number of those who saw the president are candidates for office, few of them attempted to press their claims, and congressmen with long lists of constituents who are willing to work for Uncle Sam were discreet enough not to ask for favors, but to simply pay their respects. The members of the United States supreme court with the exception of Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Harlan, came early, as is their custom. Congressman Meredith, of Virginia, came with a delegation of friends; Congressman Henderson, of North Carolina, was on a similar duty. Congressman Bland, of Missouri, left his hobby of free silver outside the door when he went into Mr. Cleveland's room. Congressman Holman, of Indiana, "the watch dog of the treasury," cracked his joke with the president. Ex-Congressman Rogers, of Arkansas, who was mentioned as a candidate for the attorney generalship in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet, came, so he said, to renew his acquaintance. He was not after an office. Said Mr. Rogers and if the lightning were to strike him he would be the most surprised man in the world. Other callers were Congressmen Heard and Mansuer, of Missouri, Bryan, of Nebraska, Martin and Bynum, of Indiana; Compton, of Maryland; Oates, of Alabama, and Warner, of New York. The great bulk of the visitors were democrats, of course, but there were a number of republicans in the throng, and among them Senator Mitchell, with a party of gentlemen from Oregon; Senator Manderson, with several ladies and gentlemen from Nebraska, and Congressmen O'Neill and Dalzell, of Pennsylvania. Another caller was Charles H. J. Taylor, of Kansas City, ex-minister to Liberia, who is after the scalp of ex-Senator Bruce, of Mississippi, the recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia. Congressman Rockwell, Senator Hill's great friend, was also numbered among the elect who were admitted to the president's room. Mr. Cleveland was so busy receiving callers in his office that he did not go down stairs to see the hundreds of people who were waiting for him in the east room. The room became so crowded and the crowd outside awaiting admittance was so great, that the east room was cleared and a line formed so that people might pass in and out and thus have an opportunity of seeing the apartment. Fully 5,000 people went through the white house in this disappointing manner.

The democratic members of the senate went into caucus this morning a few minutes after 10 o'clock and are still discussing the question of organization. It will be impossible to get anything like a definite idea of the situation until late in the day as there is every probability of a lengthy session. Up to the present moment absolutely nothing has been accomplished beyond the expression of individual views. The program contemplates the reorganization of the committees first, although it is given out on good authority that before the caucus is over it will dispose of the elective officers. The time of the caucus so far has been devoted to the consideration of the committee changes and chairmanships. The republicans concluded their committee meeting last night without arriving at any definite result, for the reason that they were all at sea and will be in that condition until the majority notifies them what they have decided upon. The retiring chairmen of the various committees will, however, be given the ranking place of the committees and the youngest member in point of service will be dropped. The chief contest will be among those senators who will be entitled to chairmanships of the minor committees held by democrats under the congress just ended. There are eleven such chairmanships, and the republican caucus committee has decided that they shall go to the senators who have seen the longest continuous service. Such an assignment naturally gives the senator a room at the capitol and is very desirable.

At 2 o'clock the caucus adjourned subject to the call of the chairman. Mr. Gorman was re-elected chairman and Mr. Faulkner secretary.

The whole matter of reorganization was referred to a committee to be appointed by Mr. Gorman. In the meantime the present organization will continue and the democrats will hold their next caucus next week.

Will Not Quarantine.

LONDON, March 7.—The legislative assembly of Jersey has declared by vote that quarantine is not a preventive of cholera and has therefore refused to establish a quarantine against vessels from ports alleged to be cholera infected.

Bargains in remnants at Louis Wolf & Co. tomorrow.

LEAVE FOR HOME.

End of the Fifty-eighth General Assembly.

The Proceedings of the Last Day in Both Houses of the Indiana Legislature.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 7.—The last day of the regular session of the Fifty-eighth general assembly of Indiana closed yesterday, both houses adjourning sine die about 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The senate opened with prayer, by the Rev. A. N. Thompson, pastor of the Seventh Presbyterian church.

On motion of Senator McHugh, of Tippecanoe, a committee of three, consisting of McHugh, Griffith and Newby, was appointed to wait on the governor and ascertain if he had any more communications to present to the senate. A similar committee, consisting of Messrs. Magee, Holland and Crumpacker, was appointed to wait on the house.

A communication from Gov. Matthews was presented and read. He called the attention of the senate to two bills now pending before that honorable body. House bill No. 151, known as the sleeping car bill and engrossed house bill No. 419, known as the general tax bill, and urged their passage without amendment or delay.

Senator McHugh, of Marion, offered a joint resolution declaring that the people of Indiana are in sympathy with the effort of Gladstone to give home rule to Ireland, and bidding the "Grand Old Man" God speed. The resolution was adopted.

The senate then proceeded to the consideration of house bill No. 431, providing for the taxation of telegraph, express, sleeping car and other property. The bill requires telegraph, telephone, palace car, sleeping car, drawing room car, dining car, express and fast freight companies to deliver to the auditor of state a statement verified by the oath of the officer or agent making the statement, showing the total capital stock, the number of shares, their par value, the market value, the principal place of business, the real estate structures, machinery, etc., the specific property owned in the state, the amount of all mortgages, the total length of telegraph and telephone lines in and out of the state, and the length of the lines in each of the counties and townships of the state. That done, there is to be placed on the tax duplicate such valuation as the proportion of such property in this state bears to the total valuation.

Senator Kern moved to amend the amended bill by providing that in case any of the companies described refuse to pay any of the taxes assessed under the provision of this act the attorney-general on the relation of the auditor of state or the prosecuting attorneys of the several judicial districts or the relation, if the several county auditors are authorized to enter suit to compel the payment of such taxes.

Senator Magee moved to amend by striking out the attorney general. The Magee amendment prevailed.

Senator Wishard in explaining his vote said that since the senate was denied any knowledge of the attorney general's office he was opposed to conferring any further authority upon it. The Kern amendment, as amended, was adopted placing the enforcement of the law in the hands of the various prosecuting attorneys. The bill was further amended to make its provisions explicitly apply to the companies named above and then passed—yeas 40, nays 4.

At 4 o'clock the senate adjourned sine die.

The last day's session of the house did not begin until after 11 o'clock. There was little business of importance to be transacted and much of the time was taken up in the introduction and passage of the usual resolutions of thanks.

Several resolutions to give employes extra money were introduced, but most of them met with disfavor. A resolution to allow the eight men employed by the journal clerk to work on full pay for four days after the close of the session, in order to complete the journal, was adopted, and also one to allow a janitor named Nation $4 per day extra for the entire session. A resolution to allow the engrossing clerks eight days extra service was voted down after Representative Barnes had spoken against it. He said it was time to call a halt in this culmination of a general raid upon the treasury.

Representative McMullen introduced the following resolution, which, after being discussed briefly, was adopted:

WHEREAS, By the overthrow of the apportionment made by the legislature of 1891, the supreme court has encroached on what has heretofore been conceded to be the domain of the legislature, and in so doing has left no rule or method by which the legality of an apportionment can be decided, other than the opinion of said court, and

WHEREAS, The supreme court has, by other decisions, unsettled the former rules governing the appointing power, and in so doing has made it necessary that the appointing power should be definitely and permanently fixed by the constitution, and,

WHEREAS, The supreme court has by the overthrow of two registration laws, made it manifest that no just and effective system of registration can be adopted under the present constitution and it is believed that there are many other defects in the constitution, and

WHEREAS, No amendment to the constitution can be now offered on account of pending amendments, and no call for a constitutional convention should be hastily or inconsiderately made, therefore, be it

Resolved, That a committee of six be appointed, three by the president of the senate and three by the speaker of the house, of whom two shall be senators, two representatives and two not members of the general assembly and said committee shall be charged to examine fully into all claimed defects of the constitution, to examine the provisions of more modern constitutions of other states, and to report to the legislature of 1895 the result of their investigations, together with their recommendations thereon.

The house concurred in the amendments to the Pullman tax bill.

Two reports of the southern prison investigating committee were submitted to the house just before noon and the majority report was adopted. At 1:30 o'clock the house adjourned sine die.

According to a resolution adopted in the house and senate both branches of the legislature met in the senate chamber at 8 o'clock and proceeded from there to pay their respects to General Harrison in a body.

ALL ABOUT A HOG.

A Case on Trial in the Circuit Court Before a Jury.

Links of Legal Lore as Gathered During a Trip of the Justice Offices and Court House.

The case of Mrs. August Wolf against Henry Antrup has been on trial today before a jury in the circuit court, the suit being one that was brought by appeal from Justice Wheelock, of St. Joseph township.

The plaintiff sues for $14.50, being the price and value of one hog which belonged to her, and which she alleged was killed by the defendant and his dog, and the injury to two other hogs.

The testimony developed the fact that some time last fall the plaintiff's hogs got onto the farm of Mr. Antrup, and in driving them off, he set his dog on them, and so injured and beat one of the hogs as to cause its death. The other porkers were also badly injured and Mrs. Wolf places her damages at the amount mentioned above.

Mr. Myers is attorney for the plaintiff, and Will Leonard for the defense. T. J. Logan, the court stenographer, is writing down the testimony in the case.

During part of the time today Harry Hanna was sitting as judge in the case, as Judge O'Rourke was one of the pall bearers at the funeral of Miss Adah Bittenger.

COURT CULLINGS.

Judge Dawson was engaged in routine work in the superior court today.

Justice France gave A. C. Trentman judgment against Joseph Bennett for possession of premises and $25 damages.

Information has been filed in Justice Hays' court on account of four dead rats which were thrown out on Main street, but as the constable cannot find the particeps criminis, the justice has concluded that he will not issue any warrants.

William Finney has brought suit in Justice France's court against W. L. Looker & Co and Sigmund & Kunkle, of Michigan City, on attachment for $25. The case is set for the 14th at 9 o'clock.

Justice Ryan, while going to his home last evening, fell on the slippery sidewalk and injured himself so badly that he was unable to be at his office today.

Katy Buffink brings suit in the circuit court against Charles Buffink for divorce and the custody of their child.

Barbara Neitert was yesterday granted a divorce from Herman Neitert by Judge Dawson. She was also granted the custody of their only child, Lillie. The case of Sophia Hener vs. Martin Hener for divorce was dismissed.

The county commissioners were in session today and granted about fifty licenses to sell liquor.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded: Mary Pearl to Henry Sandkuehler lot 3, Tording's part of Hanna's out lot 11, consideration $150; Mary E. Donovan to John H. and Harriett E. Randall part of lot 22, Hanna's addition; A. Hattersley to Margaret Falls part of lot 131, Rockhill's addition, $100.

The item in some of the morning papers stating that the residence of Thomas Meegan had been sold by the sheriff, was misleading. There was a little difficulty over a mechanic's lien an affair with which Mr. Meegan had nothing to do, but it has been settled, Contractor Bandt paying the claim. The trouble, it seems, was between the contractor and sub-contractor.

The supreme court of the state has rendered the following decision of interest to travelers. "Where a passenger purchases his ticket and presents his baggage and procures it to be checked in ample time, the contract implied in the purchase of the ticket requires the carrier to carry the baggage upon the same train with the passenger, and if it does not, but detains it until a later train, the detention constitutes negligence. After the arrival of such baggage it is the duty of the carrier to give the owner a reasonable time to remove it before locking it in its warehouse for the night, and failing to do so, the liability of the carrier continues as such, and it is not changed to that of a warehouseman. A carrier is liable as an insurer of the baggage of a passenger. The burden is upon it to show that the loss occurred from such cause such as act of God, by reason of which it is exempt from liability, unless it does so its liability is conclusive."

CAUGHT HIM.

A Prisoner Breaks Jail and Then Gets Back.

William Holsinger Arrested at Kendallville—He Was Taken Back to Van Wert, Ohio.

William Holsinger, the thief, mention of whose escape from the Van Wert jail was made in yesterday's SENTINEL, was captured yesterday afternoon at Kendallville, by Marshal Berhalter. The escaped jail bird had just alighted from a west bound Lake Shore train. In telling how he made his escape Holsinger says he got the confidence of a small boy about the jail and persuaded him to give him the keys. The boy complied with his request and he simply unlocked the doors and walked out, the colored man following. He says he was going home to his father's and then skip for parts unknown.

Speaking of the escape, the Van Wert Bulletin says:

"It happened about 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Sheriff Shoemaker had given the prisoners their suppers at the usual time. He had opened the outer door and had passed the dishes in through the grating of the inner door. After the prisoners had finished eating he had removed the dishes to the kitchen and had locked the outer door again, putting the keys on the top shelf of the kitchen cupboard, where they were always kept.

"At the time of the escape the sheriff was upstairs at the bedside of his sick wife. A crash as of falling furniture startled them both and the sheriff rushed down just in time to see two of his prisoners making fast time for freedom through a side door and to prevent three more from following them. Both doors leading to the cells were open. Why and how, the two escaped men know and maybe others know, but nobody seems anxious to tell. The men who escaped were Green, of Willshire township, in for bastardy, and Charles House, the man brought down from Fort Wayne last week for grand larceny.

"Two explanations are given of the modus operandi of the escape. The first report this morning was that the men had coaxed a six-year old son of the sheriff to get the keys and open the doors, promising him plenty of candy for his pains. Mr. Shoemaker discredits the report and claims that the keys were kept out of reach of the youngster and that they were found in place after the escape.

"Another report is that the prisoners had a bone skeleton key which they used to good advantage. As House had been in jail less than a week, he must be a skilled worker in bone or else the jail locks are made to respond to beef ribs without whittling."

Madge Cole's place was raided last night by Officer Borgman. Seven girls and three men put up $15.50 each.

Dan O'Brady was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Quinn for drunkenness. He spent the night at the station. This morning, in police court, he was let go.

Dr. Newcomb has been released from the county jail and gone to Warsaw to try the Borton cure for drunkenness. The doctor is a man of intellect but has unfortunately allowed himself to become greatly dissipated.

A BIG GUN.

It Goes Through on the Pennsylvania Road.

Seventeen Cars Required to Haul It—Hundreds of Persons go Down to the Depot.

The famous Krupp gun, built for exhibition at the world's fair and which was minutely described in these columns some time ago, passed through the city this afternoon en route to Chicago, over the Pittsburg railroad. The train carrying the monster and its equipments was run as the second section of No. 71, and consisted of seventeen cars. The gun was carried on two immense flat cars, constructed expressly for that purpose, while the attachments, consisting of a carriage, etc., occupied fifteen box cars. Hundreds of our citizens went out to the east yards, where the train was held over an hour, to look upon the massive ordnance and wonder at its immensity and construction, while at the depot and along the line of the railroad many more hundreds of people had congregated for the same purpose.

CANNOT BE AVOIDED.

Such is Chief Arthur's Opinion of the Ann Arbor Strike.

The Firemen Ready to Act With the Engineers and the Road May be Tied Up.

TOLEDO, Ohio, March 7.—The difficulty between the Ann Arbor railroad company and the engineers is still pending. Chief Arthur is still in the city, and Chief Sargent, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, is to arrive today.

If the engineers go out the firemen will strike with them and Chief Arthur states this morning that he came to the conclusion that a strike can not be avoided.

The Ashleys refuse to confer on the matter any further, claiming to be prepared to fill all vacancies as fast as they occur.

Tomorrow is remnant day at Louis Wolf & Co.

Hon. F. C. Bell, speaking of his new house, says it will be built of stone, but he has not decided whether it will be pressed brick or red brick.

MRS. F. HELSTEN.

I would do in fact, so nervous and [illegible] fine, my head aching. I confess it myself enough to credit it. It was a pamphlet advertising Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I became so interested in what I read that I decided to use this remedy.

"In one half hour after beginning its use I felt a change for the better. That night I slept, the first night in months. I continued to use it and now, thank God, I am well and enjoy good health. I wish all that suffer would use this wonderful medicine, for without it I should have been dead."

The above remarkable cure will induce thousands to use this wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. This is the season of the year when everybody needs a spring medicine and all who are ailing or who are out of order from spring debility can be immediately made well and strong by this great remedy. Doctors recommend it highly. It is purely vegetable and harmless. Indeed it is the prescription and discovery of a physician, Dr. Greene, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, of 35 West 14th street, New York.

WE GIVE in this issue a list of all the bills passed by the late legislature.

THE East Germantown democracy has chosen B. F. Sourbeer for postmaster.

THE Mishawaka Enterprise gave the ex-president a farewell in these words: "Well, good by, Ben; take keer o' yourself."

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON received a cordial greeting yesterday at Indianapolis on his return home, by members of all parties.

IT IS SAID that interest in professional base ball is so rapidly dying out that some of the managers fear disaster the coming season.

AFTER sage reflection the Michigan City Dispatch is forced to the reflection that "the ground hog is an unreliable prognosticator of the weather."

P. M. GILLIES, editor of the Newcastle Democrat, has instituted mandamus proceedings against the auditor of Henry county, compelling the auditor to permit an examination of records and bills on file.

FOUR years ago Kansas gave the republican candidate for president about 80,000 majority. Last November she refused to give him an electoral vote, and now has no republican senator, no republican governor, and only a minority of republican congressmen.

THE issue of standard silver dollars from the mints and treasury offices during the week ending March 3 was $363,350 for the corresponding period last year, $340,741. The shipment of fractional silver coin for February was $308,465, against $273,418 for February of last year and from the 1st to the 3d instant, $79,950.

THE Indiana legislature has adjourned and the statesmen are flocking to their different homes by the score. Judging from the opinions of the press of Indiana, they will not add many laurels to the democratic party. A number of very good bills have been made laws but they failed to pass other bills of very great importance and benefit to the state.

THE Indianapolis Sentinel says: "The house did well to defeat the bill to legalize child insurance in Indiana. That is the very worst form of 'graveyard underwriting.' It runs counter to the basic principle of genuine insurance which is partial—only partial—compensation for loss actually sustained. Child insurance appeals not to prudence but to greed. It is an open bid for child murder. In England, we believe, it has been prohibited. Child murder by neglect, by privation, by petty cruelty, increased during its continuance to the proportions of a national scandal. Certainly Indiana ought to do nothing to encourage such a state of affairs."

The Industrial School.

To the Editor of the Sentinel:

[illegible] are the members of the Relief Union are making a strong effort to pay for the industrial school building which they have lately erected. Their appeal should not be in vain for any effort that will help the children to be self reliant is surely a benefit to the city.

The Relief Union has been very modest in its demands upon the general public and a comparatively few have been its main support. Its benefits, however, have been to the many. Take for instance, the evil of street begging. There is no question that this evil has been materially lessened since the introduction of the ticket system of this society. This alone should entitle it to the support of the many who have been saved the annoyance of personal applications from irresponsible people.

If any one needs a guarantee of the honest work done in the Relief Union, it is only necessary to read the list of the women actively connected with it. With more means more can be done.

American Prosperity.

Our people like to have nearly everything grow, and all sorts of figures to become more prodigious from year to year, but there is one direction in which they wish to have the statistics go backward. That is in respect to the business failures recorded throughout the country. Retrogression is eminently desirable here, and this is what the country actually enjoyed in that marvelously prosperous year, 1892. In that year the number of trade failures was less than that recorded in any year since 1886, and was more than two thousand less than in 1891, although there was a vastly increased number of traders in business, and an immense increase in the volume of transactions. The indebtedness of those who failed was sixty-five million dollars less in 1892 than in 1891. That means that a much smaller burden, proportionally, rests upon the business of the future, as a result of the failures of 1892, than had to be taken up as the result of the trade catastrophes of 1891. In many ways our country has been favored during the past two or three years—in abundant harvests, in intelligent enterprise directed toward the development of resources, and in other ways. The general business of the country has been reaping the benefit in the past year of these favoring circumstances. Let us hope that no calamity will occur to interrupt this wholesome backward movement of business catastrophes.

A Barren Field.

The complete emptiness of further arctic exploration, so far as obtaining any useful knowledge is concerned, may, in the opinion of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, be gathered by the summary of the purposes which Lieut. Peary's second expedition will aim to realize. At the cost of immense labor, heavy expense and considerable risk of life, he will try to outline coasts that can never be reached by any more ambitious methods than dog-sledges; to determine the location of certain islands that are bound in eternal ice, and to study the ethnological characteristics of a race whose harmless and barren lives have been pretty well understood from the days of Kane and Sir John Franklin. The statement of these aims is enough to show how the so-called scientific purposes of Arctic exploration are reduced by the test of actual usefulness to the character of chaff-chopping.

The World's Gold and Silver.

At the close of 1891 the seven principal banks of Europe held $635,000,000 of gold, while at the close of 1892 they held $750,000,000. They gained $115,000,000 of gold, while the United States lost about $60,000,000. In this same period the seven European banks added $10,000,000 of silver to their holdings, while we gained $40,000,000. Europe, the United States and Australia had at the end of 1892 in silver $967,550,000, in gold, $1,788,335,000. The world's gain in gold in the year was $175,000,000; in silver, $38,865,000. Of Europe's gain of gold we supplied some $60,000,000, and the rest, according to Mr. Ottomar Haupt, was mostly from the mines. India sent some gold and China some. "We evidently have to deal," says Mr. Haupt, "with a constant increase of the visible gold stocks in the leading countries except in the United States."

MUCH interest has been aroused by the account recently given of the electroplating of the iron-work of the Philadelphia city hall tower with aluminium. It is expected that three years will be occupied in completing the work, as the process of aluminium-plating is very tedious and there is a surface of fifty thousand square feet to be covered. The iron is first given baths of caustic soda, of diluted sulphuric acid, and of copper solution in immense tanks twenty-eight feet long, four feet wide and five feet deep. The aluminium tank holds about seven thousand gallons and receives the work after it has been dipped. Nearly ten tons of aluminium will be required to coat the whole surface. The current is supplied by four large dynamos.

LUDICROUS deliverances are common in advertisements especially in those of a personal nature. Here is one that appeared not long in a New York paper: "Willie, return to your distracted wife and frantic children! Do you want to hear of your poor old mother's suicide? You will, if you do not let us know where you are. Anyway, send back your father's meerschaum."

THE house into which Lincoln was carried when assassinated and in which he died possesses such historic interest that congress has been petitioned to purchase it and establish it as a permanent memorial. The amount asked for to buy this and additional relics is fifty-five thousand dollars.

THE oldest ornaments among the household goods of the white house are the two bronze candelabra that stood on the ends of the mantel in the red parlor. They are six feet tall, and were presented to President Jackson during his occupancy of the white house by Gen. Patterson.

INTERESTING STREET AND HOME GOSSIP.

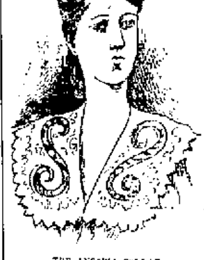
Some of the Very Latest Designs in Wearing Apparel—The Anne of Austria Collar—Notes of the Ever Changing Modes.

The Bodice in Its Variety.

The variety in corsages for the spring and summer seasons is something which cannot well be estimated in numbers. The designers have been busy all winter, and now no two models of their showing seem alike. They appear in styles that are historical, picturesque, severe, coquettish, extremely masculine, or essentially feminine, in effects funereal or practical. Again they breathe of inspiration from all the armies and navies where suggestions have been plentifully furnished for natty braided military coats, men's jackets and marine blouses. Close copy has been made of exclusive models, designed originally for the nobility of Europe alone, and the peasantry of every country on the face of the globe has provided ideas for the modelling of hundreds of other waistcoats or corsages speedily to be in universal circulation. Corsages which are shirred, plaited and crossed in front, not content with all this, have the very popular flaring revers in addition, which in summer will spread apart and leave a slightly open throat. Plainer corsages will be embellished with corselets of every description. Low evening corsages will be as diversified as high ones. Some have plastrons and revers, others dainty draperies of lace and velvet ribbon, or are finished with a fichu of rich creamy lace. Some of the new French corsages, both high and low, open on a handsome vest or plastron, with the sides prolonged in slender tabs. The long, elegant lace scarfs, which formed the almost invariable feature of our grandmothers' wedding outfits, figure gracefully on several sorts of corsages, high, open or low. One of the pretty modes of utilizing them is to drape them as berthes over a V-shaped open corsage, the ends falling straight from the waist in front or carried to the back and caught together very loosely. Some of these scarfs, in either black, white or cream colored lace, measure three yards and one-half in length.

To Wear With Evening Dresses.

The "Anne of Austria" collar, which has suddenly sprung into popularity, can be made in a variety of materials, but is here represented in white satin, with an applique of beaded net in a bold design, with a small pattern worked in the satin to fill up the spaces. It can be worn with an evening gown or as a finish to a plain, close-fitting one.

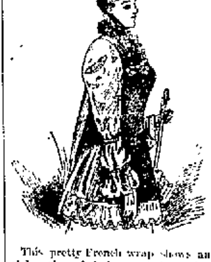


THE AUSTRIA COLLAR.

She Recognized the Quilt.

An old lady, looking out of the window of a cable car in Kansas City the other day, saw in one of the yards a silk patchwork quilt, old and faded, hanging on the line. Instantly she stopped the car, went into the house and found, as she knew she would, an old friend she had not seen in years. She recognized the quilt as one she had seen her friend piecing in central Missouri eighteen years before.

A Handsome French Wrap.

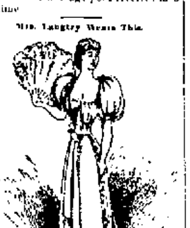


This pretty French wrap shows an elaboration of design and decoration which contrasts much with the severe English styles of the season. It is made of satin-finished drab cloth, fitting closely over the hips and draped with black lace flounces delicately crystallized with jet. This curious trimming falls in deep scallops over the front, where it is caught with a jet ornament on either side. Sleeves and collar are stiffened by the light, glittering embroidery which appears about the throat in a crisp lace ruff.

A Feminine Poet Laureate.

A young poet laureate, and a woman as well, is a pleasant, if unfamiliar picture. One likes to fancy the chaplet resting on a white, unwrinkled brow. And the poet laureate of the Chicago Fair is all of this, and a society girl much sought after besides. It all happened in such an interesting way, too. On presenting a volume of Shelley's poems to a favorite brother she wrote upon the fly leaf an ode to the author. The brother, struck with its originality, sent it to the Century, where it was accepted, to the delight of Harriet Monroe's friends and the wonder of the poet herself. Her book is receiving effusive praise from the press, though the critics are inclined to condemn it as mediocre. Her Commemoration Hymn has brought her more recognition since it was written than the average poet receives in a lifetime.

Mrs. Langtry Wears This.



This is the dress that Mrs. Langtry wears in the third act of her new play, "Agatha Tylden." The skirt is made of white moire, each seam embroidered in silver sequins, and the hem is bordered with graduated rows of the same. The bodice is full and made of mousseline de soie, dotted all over with silver sequins; the full puffs of the short sleeves are of the same, and draped folds of turquoise blue velvet catch these up on the shoulders, while bretelles of the same are of the bodice, becomingly terminating in rosettes on the top of the sleeves.

The Beauty of the Ostrich.

In each wing of an ostrich twenty-six white plumes grow to maturity every eight months. Seventy-five short feathers besides are plucked for tips from each wing. Sixty-five of the tail feathers have common value. The female ostrich lays seventy eggs a year. Think of it, you women who are making a dozen corset covers for 21 cents and furnishing your own thread. Think, you wives who ask your husbands for a quarter once a week only to be questioned what you did with the quarter you had week before last. What an investment an ostrich would be! All the feathers you like to wear yourself and nearly 200 a year besides from a single bird. The goose with the golden egg industry is quite distanced by this bird of the desert which dines contentedly on shingle nails and thrives on broken china.

Notes of the Modes.

Some handsome tailor-made Parisian gowns in both Venetian brown and dark green cloth have vests of pink cloth dotted with bronze beads.

The newest plain street jackets are tailor-made, three-quarters length, double-breasted and straight in front with the back flaring below the waist to fall full over the wide skirts.

The newest shades of blue are not the dark navy blue tints, but those in gray blue. However, green prevails above all colors. An odd but popular combination is green and violet.

Among the new shades is a red called Virginia creeper, from the frost-tinted leaves of that vine. It is a color much used for house gowns, and combines handsomely with black, chamois color and with some shades of green.

Some very elegant cloth and camel's hair dresses have the seams lapped on the skirt and stitched twice, as on a wide hem. Buttons and simulated button holes extend from the waist a portion and often the whole length of the skirt on either side of the front.

The new gowns for morning wear and traveling are of mixed tweeds or hop-sacking in the newest colors. They are made with the habit bodice, which is an all-round basque fitted by darts and seams, with flap seams in the back and with the front cut away to show a plaid vest.

A favorite trimming for lenten toilets of black armure, faille and Victoria silk is finely watered moire Francaise. These trimmings consist of a single extra-wide band or several narrow bands around the bottom of the skirts, with the addition of full sleeves, cuffs, plastron and empire girdle.

Very beautiful patterns in black Chantilly and Spanish guipure are imported in a variety of widths for ornamenting skirts, trimming Russian blouses and for Breton, Henri Deux and other capes. The narrower widths are used for bretelles, shoulder capes, zouave and Eton jackets and coquille trimmings.

Stylish but simple dresses are of grayish-blue and black mixed tweed, with a round waist, seamless except under the arms and turned back in wide revers of the material from a vest of black Muscovite silk. The revers are piped with a bias fold of the Muscovite silk; they start from a point at the waist and widen out over the shoulder and in the back form a wide collar.

Not only have women appropriated masculine fashions, but also masculine fabrics. Their street coats and also their whole costumes are of melton cloth, dark check, barred or flecked trouserings. At first it would seem that these cloths were expensive, but really they are not so, for it takes but a few yards for a costume as they are fifty-two inches wide and, as the saying is, they wear like iron.

Or high or low, or rich or poor,
None would foul teeth or breath endure,
If they but knew how sure and swift
Was SOZODONT, that priceless gift,
In giving beauty, life and tone
To every charm the mouth can own.

Of course, the plot to steal Gould's body and hold it for $1,000,000 was mythical. In the first place the body could not be secured by the most ambitious thief, and, in the second place, the state of the market does not justify a rating of $1,000,000.

Telling the Truth.

It's common saying that newspapers lie, but when an editor writes a thing and puts his name to it you may be sure he is telling the truth. Read this: "We have never before said one word in favor of any patent medicine advertisement in our columns, but having given Simmons Liver Regulator a fair trial, we do not hesitate to say, that for dyspepsia and general debility it cannot be excelled."—FRED M. CHINN, editor News, Kenton, Ohio.

PARISIAN AMUSEMENTS.

First Nights at the Theaters of a Great and Brilliant City.

During the summer months Paris remains the beautiful city of marvels, and although the "Tout Paris" or the upper ten are supposed to have migrated to the mountain, the ocean or the baronial hall, the city continues to be animated in a calm way. Summer is the season of that open air life in which the Parisians particularly delight, when the popular restaurants in the city place their little dinner tables on the sidewalk, and when the restaurants of the Champs Elysees spread snowy cloths for the weightier purses in the vicinity of splashing fountains and brilliant flower beds. That it is pleasant of a warm and still evening to dine at Laurent's or the Ambassadeurs, and to recognize many of the notabilities of the capital as they sit at the neighboring tables, on each of which is a little lamp that casts opaline reflections on the faces of the women. Gradually the glow of sunset fades away, overhead you hear President Carnot's rooks returning in loquacious bands to their nests in the garden of the Elysee palace; little by little the mystery of darkness seems to issue from and envelope the landscape; and then, by the time we have reached the moment of coffee and cigars, we see festoons of gigantic pearls whitening into luminousness beneath the trees, and lighting up brilliantly the under side of the delicate green chestnut leaves. A few minutes later there is heard a clashing of cymbals and a flonflon of commonplace music, dominated at regular intervals of the couplet by the voices of singers—Paulus, Elise Faure, Yvette Guilbert—summoning the amateurs to the gaudy joys of the cafes concerts.

The cafes concerts, the cirque d'ete, the hippodrome, such are the amusements of elegant Paris during the summer, when the theaters are closed, with the exception of the Opera and the Comedie Francaise. In September the theaters reopen their doors and the intellectual and frivolous life of Paris is resumed with renewed ardor. The summer holidays are over. In October everybody is back, and the dramatic authors imperiously claim attention for their new pieces. It is the season of "first nights." The first performance of a new play is always somewhat of an event in Paris. The French stage has a prestige that no other stage possesses, and the French audience dispenses greater glory than any other European public, insomuch that those who have not danced, sung, or acted before Paris can scarcely be said to have danced, sung or acted at all; their fame, however great it may be elsewhere, requires the ratification of Paris before it can be considered to be absolute. Paris, as Victor Hugo said, is the starting point of success, the anvil on which great renown is forged. Therefore, the privilege of being present at the "first night," particularly if the piece be by an author of supreme celebrity, is highly esteemed and persistently solicited. A "premiere" is, in a way, a social function, and constant attendance at such ceremonies constitutes a patent of Parisianism. Certainly a "first night" is interesting; it has the charm of novelty and uncertainty, the attractions of a plot yet to be disentangled, of a witticism that bounds across the footlights for the first time, of a scene that will be the talk of the town for the next nine days, of a costume that will be the fashion of to-morrow. But, above all, one is interested by the house itself, by the animation of the lobbies during the entr'actes, the exhibition of well-known faces, the presence of the great glories of literature, art, war, and politics, the consoling spectacles to which the eye has become accustomed, the avant-scenes that reveal the latest arrangements made between wealthy seigneurs and distinguished Cythereans, the baignoires full of mystery, the balcony radiant with powdered beauty, the whole audience vibrating with lively scepticism, and with that passion for movement and life which characterizes the elite of adventurers, fools of fortune, and men and women of genius who compose what is called the "Tout Paris."—Theodore Child, in Harper's Magazine.

HOUSEHOLD TRASH.

It Suddenly Assumes a Value When You Take Account of Stock.

"I'm glad we're going to move," remarked Mrs. Higbee to her husband the other morning as they began packing up their household goods. "We've been living in this house so many years that we have accumulated stacks upon stacks of trash I shall be glad to leave behind us."

"That's so," said Mr. Higbee. "We've got oceans of old clothes and furniture and stuff that is no more use to us than a balloon would be. Let's give a lot of furniture and books and old dishes and worn clothing to our scrub woman.

"They'll come in very handy for her and her family this winter, and besides it is no more than right that we should do something for the poor, whom we have always with us," and Mr. Higbee's bosom swelled with the proud consciousness of a man who assures himself that his heart is large and warm and is in the right place. "There's that old hair-cloth sofa and those old-style chairs—we don't want those, do we?" he continued.

"To be sure we do," replied Mrs. Higbee. "I shall cover the sofa with some new cloth and paint the chairs white, and they'll be real nice. By the by you'll never wear that gray suit of yours any more, will you?"

"I certainly shall if I get half a chance," responded Mr. Higbee. "A tailor can clean and press it and make it about as good as new."

Later on, as Mrs. Higbee was sorting over her old dresses, she remarked, half aloud: "This gray I'll have colored a terra cotta, and this blue can be made over for a school dress for our Maude, and this black—well, it's pretty good yet, and —"

And Mr. Higbee decided that his oldest suit would be good to wear on fishing trips next summer, and the next oldest would be good to wear about home when there were chores to be done, and when the whole household appurtenances had been carefully gone over, and the packing of goods completed, there remained for the scrub woman a pair of superannuated suspenders and a broken teacup.

These articles Mr. Higbee carefully put aside for her remarking as he did so: "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver. He who giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord."

If you care to learn the worth of household trash just you attempt to divorce yourself from it.—Chicago Times.

An Affable Archduke.

Archduke Joseph of Austria took a walk lately in the imperial park of Alcsuth, when he saw an old peasant running as fast as his old legs could carry him in pursuit of a fugitive rooster. The peasant was perspiring and gasping for breath, and wailing all the time, yet persisted in the pursuit of the fractious bird. The archduke took pity on the old man and ran to his assistance. He succeeded in capturing the rooster and delivered it into the hands of the peasant, who was overjoyed, and rewarded the prince with a broad [illegible].—Chicago Journal.

ABOUT CRABS.

They Are a Most Wonderful Part of the Wonderful World.

A book of a thousand pages could be written on "Wonders and Curiosities Respecting the Crab Family," and each chapter made apropos to the title, too. This week I have two odd items on specimens of the crab species. The first relates to the cocoanut crab. This creature inhabits the islands of the Indian Ocean and seems to be in his element when sitting astride a limb high up in a cocoanut tree. An average-sized specimen of the species fills a four gallon jar to overflowing, the "overflow" being the alcohol necessary to the preservation of such things. He is a powerful-looking crustacean and seems well adapted to his trade, which chiefly consists of plucking cocoanuts, husking them with his enormous claws and digging the meat out through the "eyes," which you have often noticed situated near the small end of the nut. Cocoanuts are originally inclosed in a three-cornered covering or husk, which consists of a woody fiber of coarse texture and a brownish yellow color. This fiber surrounds each nut in a layer from an inch to two and one half inches in thickness. The cocoanut crab collects large quantities of this fiber and constructs a large, dome-shaped "house" or nest in which he can always be found when not out in quest of more fiber or juicy nuts. The natives of most of the islands which this crab inhabits call it by a name which signifies "the bird of God," and they will not eat its flesh, even though suffering the pangs of extreme hunger. On certain days of each year they kill cocoanut crabs for the fat which accumulates in the region of the tail. This fat is used in sacrificial and other ceremonial rites.

The other crab mentioned in the opening, an account of which may be found covering a chapter and a half in Symme's "Barbadoes in the Summer Season," is the "painted demon" or "cannibal devil." When full grown this crab of satanic name and angelic proclivities weighs about a pound. No living creature was ever more highly or diversely colored or uglier in outlines of body and "face." The name "painted demon" gives you a better two-word idea of how the little villain looks than I could hope to give in a half-column description of its facial and bodily deformities. Symme says: "This crab is as harmless as a toad, but its two common names and its looks carry terror with them. * * * It is a miniature representation of your idea of the horned, spike-tailed god of the infernal regions; perhaps the queerest creature ever endowed with life."

He Was Safely Tied.

In a parlor-car on an Eastern train sat a richly dressed young woman, tenderly holding a very small poodle. "Madam," said the conductor, as he punched her ticket, "I am very sorry, but you can't have your dog in this car. It's against the rules." "I shall hold him in my lap all the way," she replied, "and he will disturb no one." "That makes no difference," said the conductor; "I couldn't allow my own dog here. Dogs must ride in the baggage-car. I'll fasten him all right for you——" "Don't you touch my dog, sir," said the young woman, excitedly; "I will trust him to no one!" and with indignant tread she marched to the baggage-car, tied her dog, and returned. About fifty miles further on, when, the conductor came along again, she asked him: "Will you tell me if my dog is all right?" "I am very sorry," said the conductor, politely, "but you tied him to a trunk, and he was thrown off with it at the last station."—Argonaut.

Mazie—I have a splendid chaperon.

Ella—Is that so?

Mazie—Yes. She flirts with each young man who arrives at the hotel, and if she finds he has any fun in him she introduces me.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Dogs as Sausage.

Dogs are slaughtered for culinary purposes in considerable numbers at Munich. The friend of man comes to table not only disguised as sausages, but dressed in various forms, and with divers sauces, without any attempt to resort to incognito. This departure in gastronomy is said to have been introduced by Italian laborers who have settled in the Bavarian capital.

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many persons are afflicted with skin eruptions, boils or ulcers. Brandreth's Pills taken freely will, in a short time, effect a complete cure of all such troubles. Ulcers of long standing have been cured by them. Carbuncles have been checked in their incipiency by them. The worst fever sores, bed sores and the like have been driven from the skin by them. Only begin in time and a few of Brandreth's Pills will prevent many a sickness.

Brandreth's Pills are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless, and safe to take at any time.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The use of 'Castoria' is so universal and its merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria within easy reach." CARLOS MARTYN, D.D., New York City. Late Pastor Bloomingdale Reformed Church.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Eructation, Kills Worms, gives sleep, and promotes digestion. Without injurious medication.

"For several years I have recommended your 'Castoria,' and shall always continue to do so as it has invariably produced beneficial results." EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., "The Winthrop," 125th Street and 7th Ave., New York City.

A. Eakin and Gus Schnetzer, of the electric light works, are taking a vacation.

G. Grenzbach, an employe of the Pittsburg lumber yards, is sick and off duty.

John Wilson, the coal dealer, is very ill. He suffers with a relapse of la grippe.

H. Geerken has gone to Upper Sandusky to repair a boiler for the Pennsylvania company.

George Miller has returned to his duties in the Pittsburg copper shop after a week's illness.

William Brunce has returned to his work in the Bass boiler shop, after an absence of a few days.

Engineer and Mrs. Horning have gone to Chicago to visit their son, who is lying ill in that city.

Henry Dammeyer, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, is detained at home by the illness of Mrs. Dammeyer.

Next Saturday the Pittsburg shop's base ball club will meet, elect officers and prepare for the coming season.

Freight Conductor Charles Matott is under instructions for promotion to the passenger service on the Pittsburg.

W. Kahlor has been transferred from the down-town to the east end lumber yards of the Pennsylvania company.

George Breeze, an employe of the Bass machine shop, is off duty on account of the death of his grandmother.

A. Rauner, who has been sick for some time, returned to his work in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop this morning.

The Keystone cycling club will reorganize in a week or two. A meeting is already being arranged for that purpose.

L. D. Goddard, of the "Q" road, passed through the city on Pittsburg train No. 3 this morning. He has been at Washington.

Oliver Babcock, of the Pittsburg machine shop, was called home yesterday afternoon by the serious and sudden illness of his wife.

G. R. Blanchard, president of the Central Traffic association, was a passenger on the westbound Pittsburg limited yesterday.

The electric light company today shipped a 650 incandescent light plant to Philadelphia for lighting buildings in Edgewater park.

Lloyd Judy, machinist, yesterday received word from Cecil that his wife, who is visiting there, is quite ill. He left for that town last evening.

Bob Bartels, an employe of Captain Harrison's department of the Pittsburg car shop, is off duty with an injured eye. Emery dust got in the optic.

Louis Miller has resigned his position in the Bass machine shop and has gone to Indianapolis to take a similar position in the Big Four railway shops.

Last week 1,600 empty cars, which have been held back for some weeks at Buffalo, were started westward, and an easing up of the car scarcity is now looked for.

Uncle Davy Andrews is reported much better today, but it will be some time before he will be able to resume work. He works in the Pittsburg boiler shop.

General Manager Hayes and his subordinate officials on Friday and Saturday inspected the new Detroit-Chicago line of the Wabash, which is about ready to be opened for all classes of traffic.

A committee of firemen off the Cairo division of the Big Four waited on General Manager Ramsey last week. Their grievance was that the coal chutes were not shaped just to suit their ideas.

Alfred Sully who figured prominently in the Indiana, Bloomington and Western road, comes to the front with a claim against the Philadelphia and Reading of $797,000, and has brought suit to recover it.

This week the Wabash shops will turn out engines Nos. 41, 37, 10 and 318, thoroughly repaired, and take in for repairs engines Nos. 97, 92, 329, 188, and 479. Foreman Mudd says that the works has all it can do.

Third Vice President J. D. Springer, of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway company has tendered his resignation, to take effect April 1. He will become general counsel of the Chicago Elevated Terminal railroad.

The news that the Lehigh Valley and the Nickel Plate roads are to establish a new through passenger line between New York and Chicago, and finely equip it is creating quite a stir in passenger circles, and much interest is taken as to the probable result.

Engineer Robert J. Lyons and Fireman Sid Letts, with engine 117, took the Krupp gun train from this city to Chicago. The train ran as the second section of No. 71. The gun mentioned yesterday as passing over the Panhandle was manufactured at Bethlehem, Pa., and was not the Krupp cannon as stated.

At today's meeting, at Boston, of the stockholders of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, First Vice President Rhienhart was elected to the presidency, in place of Allen Manvell, deceased.

Pittsburg trainmen who have reported for duty after an absence are Engineers P. Titus, S. F. Campbell, J. Callea and M. Nolan, and Firemen S. A. Sine, M. J. Pocock, J. H. Traver and M. O'Brien.

Frank Girard wears an overshoe on his left foot and limps while walking. Yesterday a heavy iron fell upon and badly bruised one of his feet. Mr Girard works in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop.

Daniel Patgen, foreman, and William Neizer, of the Pittsburg copper shop, who went to President Cleveland's inaugural, are now making a tour of eastern cities and will not return home for a day or two.

William Owens is much improved and his friends now entertain hopes of his recovery. He has been very ill for a long time. Owens works in the cabinet department of the Fort Wayne Furniture works.

Sickness keeps Engineer J. G. Carman from his duties, while Engineer H. Westerman is off duty by permission. Fireman G. Smith is off duty looking after private business. All are Pittsburg employes.

The many friends of Engineer M. Nowland will be pleased to learn that he has so far recovered from his long illness as to be able to resume his position at the throttle of a Pittsburg switch engine. He was off duty nearly a year.

Samuel Grable, one of the most competent railway men in Fort Wayne, has resumed the position he vacated two months ago as yardmaster of the Nickel Plate. The friends of the genial Sam will be glad to learn this.

Joseph Jordan is the happiest man in the Bass machine shop and his hilarious capers keep his comrades in an uproar of laughter. Joe is the father of a twelve-pound boy, one of the sweetest cherubs ever seen, and to say that the father is happy is only expressing it in a mild form.

John Newell, president of the Lake Shore road, and other prominent railroad men of the Vanderbilt fold last week made an inspection of the Western New York and Pennsylvania road, which is in financial trouble, and the belief prevails that this is the forerunner of the purchase of the road for the Vanderbilt interests.

The Paragon Paper company, of Eaton, Ind., composed of Fort Wayne capitalists, has left an order with the Bass Foundry and Machine company for six boilers, six feet in diameter and sixteen feet long, with twenty-six six-inch flues each; two engines sized respectively 14x42 and 22x42 inches, and the necessary paraphernalia.

The main building of Rhinesmith & Simonson will soon be extended north, the addition to be occupied by the Anthony Wayne Manufacturing company, who will place in it machinery for making washing machines. The addition will be a three-story building, thirty-four by forty feet. When it is completed the Anthony Wayne company will increase its working force and the output of machines over 250 per day.

The chief topic for conversation in certain circles today was the Krupp gun, mention of which will be found elsewhere. A party of Pittsburg employes were discussing the question, when one of them said: "Pshaw, that's no gun at all compared to some they have in the old country. When I was a boy I remember of seeing a gun that weighed 600 tons, was 100 feet long and had a calibre of eight feet. Oxen were employed in loading that cannon. Six pair of them would hook onto a cartridge and pull it into the mouth of the barrel, where the oxen would be unyoked and passed out single file through the touchhole." Probably that man was only joking. We leave it to our readers to decide.

The survivors of the 152nd Indiana volunteer infantry will hold a reunion at Kendallville on Thursday, March 9. Capt. George Alexander, of Kendallville, is president of the organization; H. S. Borton, of Albion, is secretary. It is expected that several members of the regiment from this county will attend. Arrangements have been made to leave on the 8:05 a. m. train on Thursday. Lieut. Col. Whittaker, of New Haven, is at the head of the regiment. W. A. Kelsey, of this county, is a member of the executive committee.

After dinner, if you have discomfort and suffering, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, or Anti-Bilious Granules. They're made to assist Nature in her own way—quietly, but thoroughly. What the old-fashioned pill did forcibly, these do mildly and gently. They do more, too. Their effects are lasting; they regulate the system, as well as cleanse and renovate it. One little Pellet's a gentle laxative; three to four act as a cathartic. They're the smallest, cheapest, the easiest to take. Unequaled as a Liver Pill. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

Put up in sealed vials—a perfect vest-pocket remedy, always fresh and reliable.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy, because they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You only pay for the good you get.

LOCAL LINES.

Hon. R. C. Bell returned from Indianapolis last evening.

Summit City Building and Loan association met last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nelligen, of Grand Rapids, who have been the guests of the Misses Nelligen at No. 23 West Lewis street, returned to their home yesterday.

Dr. J. E Miller, the health officer, has procured apparatus for testing milk and will make things interesting for some of the dairymen who are selling unwholesome milk.

The funeral of Mrs Warren Eagle was held at her late residence on Center street this afternoon at 2 o'clock. It was largely attended. The service was very impressive. Rev S. A. Northrop officiated.

The funeral of Miss Adah Bittinger was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Plymouth Congregational church, Rev. Ainslie officiating. The attendance was very large and the service impressive.

The concert given at the city Y. M. C. A. last evening by the Mockbridge company was a rare treat for those who were fortunately present. It is one of the finest combinations which has appeared in Fort Wayne this season.

The funeral of little Myrtle Schuler was held privately this afternoon at the residence instead of at St. Mary's Catholic church. The physician discovered after the death of the little one that there were symptoms of diphtheria.

Officer Fred Lumeceelry, one of the oldest and most competent of Fort Wayne's police force, who fell on the ice about a month ago and ran an icicle in his eye, seriously injuring him, was out today for the first time since he met with the accident. He has his face bandaged and wears green goggles. His injured eye is rapidly improving, but it will be some days yet before he will be able to resume his duties.

Superintendent C. D. Law, of the Pittsburg road, left this morning for Chicago, where he went on important business connected with himself. His mission there is to give bond for appearance at the trial to answer to the charge of "murder," an indictment having been returned against him relative to the Forty-ninth street accident in that city on December 29, in which several people were killed. There is hardly any probability that the indictment will be made to hold good.

'Squire James Wilkinson was tendered a happy surprise last evening, at his Lakeside home. Phœnix lodge No. 101, K. of P., came in about 10.30 and helped to increase the gaiety. The good natured 'squire was presented with a handsome little "nigger" doll baby, James Robinson making the presentation speech. When the 'squire opened the box he was paralyzed with astonishment and clasped the little one in his arms. At 11:30 an elegant supper was partaken of. Dancing and general fun-making was the order of the evening. The occasion was the celebration of the 'squire's fifty-second birthday.

ANNA EVA FAY EXPOSED.

Lifted Tables by Means of a Ring and a Hook and Eye Arrangement.

Anna Eva Fay, who recently appeared at the Masonic Temple in this city, has been spoken of for many years as being in exceedingly close communication with ethereal spirits, and as a priestess of theosophy and spiritualism has made crowds gape in wonder at her apparent power to compel "mediums to do her bidding." She once set the town talking in London by her table-moving, "materialization of beautiful flowers" and such like incidents.

Miss Fay appeared at the Columbia theater in Chicago Sunday night. She held the big audience that jammed the house awe-stricken until near the close. But before the end came the idol was broken and the whole house hissed. The Chicago Herald has the above and also tells of the exposure of Miss Fay. Dr. Palmer was one of a committee of three called from the body of the house to the stage by Miss Fay's manager. The two others were Dr. M. H. Kauffman and Professor Reis.

All through the series of spiritualistic items on the program the doctors and the professor watched with all their eyes every twist and turn, and after the table lifting of Miss Fay by the laying on of hands, Dr. Palmer sprang towards the priestess and caught her, exposing a hook attached to a finger ring on one of her hands. She had lifted the table by means of a convenient hook and eye arrangement. The exposure was complete and the audience hissed her. "Very clever trick, but nothing more," said Dr. Kauffman, one of the committee called to the stage.

R. H. Paton, 613 Walton Ave., N. Y. City, writes—"I have used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for years and find it the most efficacious remedy for coughs, colds and laryngitis I have ever tried."

A SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) man has sued a friend for $10,000 for alienating the affections of his wife. Pretty high price that to put upon the favor of a faithless spouse. If she'd been a good, true woman now, the gentleman's estimate of the value of her feminine graces might have been admitted by a jury providing most of its members were happily married.

A Cunning Thief.

Since October 1, Joseph Johnson of West Salisbury township, Chester county, Pa., has lost 200 chickens, geese, ducks and turkeys. The snow at last enabled him to track the robbers. He found their home in a hole in the hillside near by. With a little powder and a pick he unearthed the thieves, and was astonished to find two large polecats that his blast of explosive had killed. The cavity in which the polecats lived was immense, and in it were the skeleton remains of his lost flocks and fully feathers enough to make two large feather beds.

High-priced competitors disregard a well established law of physics when they buck against Salvation Oil. It is the best and cheapest. 25c.

PITH AND POINT.

—The simplicity of expression natural to a child was freshly illustrated by a four-year-old a day or two ago who suddenly cried out: "Oh, mamma, I ate up my mouth!" He had bitten his tongue.

—A man should be judged by his intentions, not by his deeds. The man who intends to be honest, but steals occasionally, is certainly no worse than he who intends to steal, but can't get a chance.—Boston Transcript.

—"What's the matter, Parker? You look blue." "I am. I asked Miss Morrison to be my wife." "Ah! Rejected." "No. Referred me to her mother, and—well, her mother rejected me herself last September at Narragansett."

—"Yaas," he said, "I shall have to challenge him. He called me a fish, don't you know!" "How ill-bred!" exclaimed his sister. "Wasn't it? When there are so many pleasanter words that mean the same thing."—Washington Star.

—She Chilled Him.—Tom—"What's the matter? I thought you had gone to call on Miss Bostonne." Jack—"I did call, but I found the atmosphere of the room so chilly that I left." Tom—"Wasn't there a stove in the room?" Jack—"Yes, but Miss Bostonne was there also."—Yankee Blade.

—Misjudged.—Employer—"See here, Mr. Penn, this is the fourth time in three months I have given you a day off, to attend your sister's wedding. Don't you think you ought to find a new excuse?" Book-Keeper—"But, sir, I have been telling the truth. Sister lives in Chicago."—Indianapolis Journal.

BATHING CAN BE OVERDONE.

Thousands of Delicate People Said to Die Annually from Too Many Baths.

Cleanliness is a rather modern fad, when you come to think over it, for it is only within the last thirty years that bath-rooms and tubs have become common. Very few of the better class houses built previous to 1860 had these conveniences, but they have been very generally added since.

You wonder how people got along at all without them.

They didn't bathe. Instead of a daily bath they took an occasional wash.

No, they were not dirtier then than now. The fact is that people bathe and scrub entirely too much. At least some people do. Thousands of delicate people are washed into the grave annually. Scores legions of babies.

Nature has provided certain healthful unguents for the skin, but your very clean individual regards these as dirt, and religiously scrubs them off once or twice a day, which is a mistake that often costs him a great deal in the way of neuralgia, rheumatism or other phases of ill-health.

It is proper enough to remove dust and dirt from the body, but this can be done as well with a sponge or cloth as by soaking in a bath-tub. A hot bath once a week in summer, and less frequently in winter, will not hurt. It is stimulating to the skin and soothing to nerve terminals that have become irritated or excited as expressed by itching or burning sensations.

The bath-tub is generally rated as a luxury, and so it is, but you know that luxuries are not often conducive to health of either body or mind.

You say you can not get along without your bath. Neither can the toper get along without his liquor, the smoker without his pipe, the tea-tippler without his "cups that cheer but not inebriate."

Frequent washing and scrubbing the face with soap and water is the main cause of the skin becoming dry and rough. Washing without will save it considerably, but not washing at all, or only when necessary, will keep it softer and easier than any cosmetic ever compounded.—Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette.

CHEAP HOSPITALITY.

How a Normandy Miser Covered the Cost of a Magnificent Dinner.

A miser, residing in a little town in Normandy, could not bring himself to return the civilities of his friends; consequently, one day his name was dropped from the list of invitations.

To recover the loss of so many sumptuous repasts he would have to entertain his hosts in his turn and the very thought of it completely staggered him. At last he was struck by a brilliant idea, and he sent out his cards of invitation. In the middle of the banquet, which was on a magnificent scale, horrible cries were heard, and our amphitryon ran out to ascertain the cause. Soon afterwards he returned, pale, excited, his hands covered with blood.

"What has happened?" exclaimed all the guests.

"An unfortunate workman, the poor father of a family, has been run over just opposite my door!"

And without saying another word, the miser, obeying a generous impulse, snatched up a plate in which he placed a few louis, and, handing it round, collected about six hundred francs, which he hastened to deliver to the interesting sufferer. Next day, on making inquiries, the guests found that the accident was a myth invented by the miser to recoup himself for the cost of his dinner.—Yankee Blade.

The highest praise has been won by Hood's Pills for their easy, yet efficient action. Sold by all druggists. Price 25 cents.

Old Colonial Furniture.

Perth Amboy, N. J., is the repository of some of the finest old colonial furniture in the East. The city, which is one of the oldest ports of entry in the United States, still retains a few of its early dwellings, and some of these are occupied by descendants of those who built the houses many generations ago. The consequence is that the old furniture at Perth Amboy is never sold save at the death of some venerable freeholder, and even then is bought in by vigilant relatives or friends.

Catarrh in Colorado.

I used Ely's Cream Balm for dry catarrh. It proved a cure.—B. F. M. Weeks, Denver.

Ely's Cream Balm is especially adapted as a remedy for catarrh which is aggravated by alkaline dust and dry winds.—W. A. Hover, druggist, Denver.

I can recommend Ely's Cream Balm to all sufferers from dry catarrh from personal experience.—Michael Herr, pharmacist, Denver.

Ely's Cream Balm has cured many cases of catarrh. It is in constant demand.—Geo. W. Hoyt, pharmacist, Cheyenne, Wy.

Temperature of Nasturtiums.

An experimenter has discovered that nasturtiums will live and flourish, but bloom sparingly, in a sunny apartment, where the temperature at night falls sometimes to or below the freezing point. It has been found, however, that those neutral tinted nasturtiums, a comparatively recent triumph in floriculture, not only need more water than the ordinary nasturtium, but also are much more sensitive to cold. One such plant was destroyed in a temperature that had no visible injurious effect upon nasturtiums bearing blossoms of brighter hues.

There are seventy inmates in the county infirmary.

J. H. Prouty and wife, of Lagrange, Ind., are in the city today.

J. H. De LaMere, of the New York Pacific service, is in New York.

Ladies interested in the cadet corps fair meet tonight at the armory.

A Hanna street car jumped the track at the Bloomingdale bridge this morning.

Earl Drake and George E. Gowdy, of Muncie, have purchased the Arcade shoe store.

Jos. E. Taylor, advance man for "The Two Sisters" company, was in the city yesterday.

Watt Kusell, of Chicago, representing a concert company, was in the city yesterday.

Township Trustee Brackenridge has collected between $75 and $80 dog tax since Saturday.

A. C. Trentman & Co invoiced Sunday. Twenty-two men, divided into squads, did the work.

Mrs. W. Merton, of Elkhart, Ind., is in the city. She is here to purchase spring millinery goods.

Isaac Lehman and Louis Freidlich, of Mansfield, Ohio, are visiting Ben Lehman. They arrived Saturday.

Mrs. Franke, mother of Marshal Franke, is ill at the home of her son, Charles Franke, 129 Taylor street.

A number of Fort Wayne people will attend the Christian Endeavor convention at Winchester, Ind., March 10.

The P. O. S. of A. met last evening and initiated three new members and acted upon the applications of nine others.

Henry Nyland was granted a permit yesterday to erect a frame addition to a house on lot 11, Williams' addition, to cost $200.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians at their next meeting will take steps towards the celebration of St. Patrick's day, March 17th.

It is said that a building and loan association having many new features will be organized at the Custer house Thursday evening.

Good duck shooting is reported along the Wabash river in the prairies, five miles west of the city. A few jack snipe have also been seen.

At the quarterly meeting of the Standard club held Sunday afternoon it was decided to further furnish the club rooms with a fine library.

Tomorrow Dr. Otto Gross goes to Lafayette to serve as a member of the state board to conduct the examinations in pharmacy at Purdue university.

Officer Frank McCrory is still in a bad way and unable to use his sprained ankle. He will not be out for three or four weeks yet. Dr. Greenawalt is attending him.

Mr. Botterman, of St. Louis, Cook county, Ill., was chosen as a new teacher by the Emanuel Lutherans on Sunday. A committee to select a sight for the new school building was also selected.

Henry Beadell, of the People's store, has returned from an extensive purchasing tour for that establishment. New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Detroit, Mich., were visited by him.

Henry Stier, jr., of the People's store, sports a brand new Victor bicycle. He had quite an audience last evening in attendance at his first lesson, which was very amusing, but didn't discourage Henry in the least.

Rev. Jas. S. Ainslie is holding a series of meetings in the South Congregational church, preaching every evening this week except Saturday. In the singing he is assisted by Prof Miles, Mr. Stopher and members of Plymouth church choir. The meetings are largely attended and deeply interesting, and many are committing themselves to the Christian life.

The Huntington Democrat: "Three boys ran away from the Feeble Minded institution at Fort Wayne Saturday. They started to walk to Huntington, but one of them turned back to Aboite and returned to Fort Wayne. The other two came here, and Sunday Marshal Crandall found them at the home of Mrs. Hoon, on Superior street. One was Mr. Hoon's son, Ernest, and the other Walter Dean. Crandall returned them to Fort Wayne Sunday evening."

The commencement exercises at the Masonic Temple this evening promise to be very interesting. Hon. Allen Zollers will give an address, and all who know the judge know him to be an able and eloquent speaker. Dr. Miles F. Porter will give the valldictory to the class graduates. To these exercises the public is cordially invited. While students have sent to their friends special invitations, the faculty and board of trustees invite the public, and all are welcome.

The Van Wert Bulletin says: "Van Wert is to be favored with a short course of two eloquent and instructive lectures illustrated by a very fine stereopticon, on Monday and Tuesday evenings, April 3 and 4. Rev. J. L. Leeper, who has given these lectures to audiences of many hundreds in Fort Wayne this winter, and who is engaged to deliver them at Warsaw annually next summer, has been secured by the Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church to give his lectures on 'Lands of the Midnight Sun' and 'Hawaii,' on those dates."

GOWN OF A PRINCESS.

Kaiulani Has One Made in New York Quite to Her Taste.

The Gossip of the Day Gathered in Social and Club Circles in Our City.

The Princess Kaiulani is so well pleased with America that she is having made in New York an evening gown which, she says, she will wear while in Washington. The princess is very fond of blue, it is her preference above all other colors, accordingly her choice was a handsome satin brocade of a very light shade of blue, with a pattern in pulsand effect of very small leaves and flowers of turquoise blue. There was hardly enough life in the pale blue to suit the dark skin, and after trails of different combinations, it was decided to use satin ribbon of turquoise, very much to the princess' satisfaction.

The skirt is very wide and is lined throughout with the lightest weight crinoline, such as has long been used in skirts and is not the outcome of the hoopskirt fad. But it was enough to alarm the little lady and she wished it taken out, as she would in no way recognize the crinoline or the hoop skirt and she didn't even want her gown to 'stick out.' She was finally persuaded, however, that it was not meant for that purpose, but was merely a lining that gave no appreciable weight to the skirt, and she consented to allow it to remain.

Ribbon about an inch and a half in width, quilled in the old fashioned style, trims the skirt, five rows being used set far apart, so that the trimming is about two-thirds of the skirt in depth. The waist is made with the silk drawn quite full from the shoulders into a broad belt of turquoise ribbon. The princess expressed a desire to have a decidedly short waisted effect. She admires the Empire and Louis XV styles. The sleeves are very large puffs and a bertha of very rich point applique trims about the neck, which is cut round and very slightly decollete. In her round of the shops the princess is attended by a companion and a maid. She is sprightly in her ways among women, pleasing in manner and quite chatty. Her coal black hair escapes in little curls about her face and ears, and her complexion, which is dark, is rich and full of life, without a suggestion of being sallow. She signs herself "V. Kaiulani Cleghorn," and her friends shorten her name still further into "Lani."

SOCIETY GOSSIP.

Mrs. C. L. Smith left this morning for Paulding, Ohio, where she will be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. E. M. Savercool.

Mrs. G. W. Seavey will leave today for Los Angeles, Cal., where she has been called by the critical illness of Mr. Seavey.

Mrs. George S. Howard and little daughter, Ada, who have been visiting Mrs. Belamy, returned yesterday to Frankfort, Ind.

The Wednesday club will meet this week at the Fort Wayne club. Mrs. L. M. Ience will read the "Life of Ralph Waldo Emerson."

Miss Franklin, of Vicksburg, Mich., will arrive in the city Wednesday to be the guest of the Misses Eva and Kate Beebe for a week.

The Sorosis will meet Thursday of this week at the home of Mrs. Robert Smythe, in South Wayne. The subject for study during the meetings of this club will be the world's fair.

This evening Mrs. Diedrick Meyers will entertain the young ladies of the English Lutheran church at her home on West Wayne street in honor of Miss Dora Harbison who leaves in a few days for her home in Indianapolis, Ind.

Miss Harbison, a kindergarten teacher at the Institute for Feeble Minded Youth, has resigned her position there and is spending a week with the Misses Carver, of West Washington street, before leaving for her home at Indianapolis, Ind.

A very charming informal afternoon tea was given yesterday by Mrs. Fred J. Hayden at her beautiful home on the east side in compliment to Mrs. Crossin and daughter, Miss Ella, of Toronto, Canada, who are Mrs. Hayden's guests. Miss Margaret Hanna presided at the tea table.

Misses Lizzie and Sophia and Mr. Charles Paseler, who live at 197 East Lewis street, are quite ill with quinsy. It was at first feared that they had diphtheria, but the disease has proved to be quinsy.

Among the physicians from abroad who will attend the commencement exercises of the medical college students this evening are: Drs. Sampson, of Upper Sandusky, Vail, of Columbia City, Woods, of Van Wert, Burkett, of Warsaw, Wilson, of Plymouth, and Drs. Linville and Williams, of Columbia City.

Last evening the Epworth league held their regular monthly literary meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Alderman on West Washington street. The paper on the "Life of Dickens," by Dr. J. S. McCurdy, the music by Miss Quickell and the recitation by Miss Dora Harbison, of Indianapolis, were interesting parts of the program. At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Alderman served a tempting luncheon and entertained the young people in her usual charming manner.

A largely attended meeting of the Missionary club was held last evening at the First Presbyterian church. The subject was India and very interesting papers were read by Mrs. C. H. Randall, Miss Mary Godown, Mr. T. M. Lloyd, and as Mr. C. H. Worden was not able to be present, the paper written by him was read by Mr. P. L. Olds. The report of the executive committee was read and it was decided to have four persons take charge of each meeting and each paper or talk will be limited to five minutes. The meetings will be held the first Monday in every month.

Miss Lulu Fletcher celebrated her sixth birthday Saturday by inviting a number of her little friends to participate in a very enjoyable party. Her guests were entertained with various games and the lunch served was excellent. Those present were:

MARRIED IN PARIS.

Daughter of General McClellan Weds in the Capital of France.

PARIS, March 7.—The marriage of Miss May McClellan, daughter of the late George B. McClellan, and St. Paul De Sprez, attaches to the French legation at Washington, took place at the Mairie of the Seventh Aredissement in the Rue De Grenele yesterday. The religious marriage was celebrated on the oratory of the Nuciature today. The witnesses for M. De Sprez were M. Nisard, of the ministry of foreign affairs, and M. Bonnieres, his uncle; for Miss McClellan, the United States minister, and Gen. George H. Batchelor, ex United States minister to Portugal. Only the intimate friends of both families were present, including Mrs. Geo. B. McClellan, the bride's mother, and M. and Mme Hippolyte De Sprez, parents of the groom. No formal invitations were issued for the religous ceremony of today.

DISEASED MEAT.

A Family Poisoned by Eating It and Four May Die.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 7.—The family of Henry E. Horner, of this place, were poisoned by eating diseased meat, and last night Mr. Horner died. His wife and three children are now dangerously ill and may die. The coroner has charge of the case and has begun an investigation. The meat was purchased in the shop of Butcher Van Horne. He denies that the meat was bad.

Paid His Claim.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Comptroller Matthews has paid Supervisor John I. Davenport his claim for $31,000 for services rendered at the last national election. It will be recalled that Attorney General Miller did not approve of the claim. When it left the department of state and was sent to the treasury department, the attorney general's objection to the claim accompanied it. Comptroller Matthews thought differently. He said that under the law Mr. Davenport was entitled to the money and so Mr. Davenport got it.

Senator Morgan.

SOUTHAMPTON, March 7.—The condition of Senator John T. Morgan, who is suffering from a slight attack of erysipelas at the Southwestern hotel here, has materially improved since yesterday. He expects to be able to proceed to London in two or three days, and will shortly after start for Paris to attend, as one of the representatives of the United States, the sessions of the Behring Sea court of arbitration.

Case Continued.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 7.—The case of Marion C. Hedgepeth, who is under indictment for complicity in the robbery of the Adams Express company's train at Glendale station, Nov. 30, 1891, was called in the circuit court at St. Charles yesterday. Judge Hughes granted a continuance until the next session of court in August. The continuance was allowed on account of the absence of three material witnesses.
